SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the School Board and the Citizens of the School District of Pittsburg:

Foreword

One living here in our beautiful North Country has but to observe the constant stream of raw materials on the way to the market, mill or factory, as the case may be, to realize the extensive power that already has been attained over nature. A bit of reflection, however, makes us see that it would be ironic to extend this control without the maturity of mind to know what to do with it.

Of even more vital concern to us, than ways and extent to which we are using these natural materials round about us, is the reason for their use. We have traveled so far and so fast by the various "means" provided that the tendency has been to overlook the "ends." It is questionable if there ever was a time when the need for serious thought on the future was any more important than at the present time. Today, with the perfection and efficiency that has been attained in so many different skills, it is urgent that the emphasis be not on the "how" but rather on the "for what."

With the acceptance of this premise, the role of public education becomes more embracing than ever before. For what we are as well as where we are tomorrow and for generations to come, will depend largely upon the character of our schools and the teachers who teach in them. Not only the special talents which our boys and girls develop while at school, but also their attitudes, understandings and appreciations—the frame within which they will make their future lives—will be the determining factors for the place that America holds in the world during the years that follow.

Teachers

Several new teachers joined the teaching staff this year. Phyllis J. Quimby, a graduate of Plymouth Teachers' College, with several years of experience, became the teacher of grades 3-4. The vacancy in the English-French position was first filled by Bernard A. Palmer, a graduate of Middlebury University. Mr. Palmer was followed by Bertha Buckley and Norma Ordway, two temporary teachers with extensive teaching experience in Berlin and Gorham. The present teacher is William J. Green, an experienced teacher who graduated from St. Anselm's College. Nicholas J. Nickolas, a graduate of Harvard University, teaches Social Studies and the Physical Sciences. We are fortunate to have James A. Jordan return as headmaster and mathematics teacher, Marion K. Gray to teach commercial subjects, and Doris E. Fissette and Eva S. Schoff to teach Grades 5-6 and 1-2 respectively.

Enrollment and Attendance

At the time of this writing, the total enrollment is 143 as compared with 133 last year, and 124 the previous year. Of this number 4 are high school tuition pupils from Clarksville. Six Pittsburg pupils are in attendance at West Stewartstown. The average percentage of attendance for the past year in Grades 1-6 was 94.68, Grades 7-8 was 97.24, and for high school 95.57.

Notes on the Budget

The School Board's Budget for 1949-50 which provides for the customary operating expenses plus principal and interest payments on the bonds issued to finance the construction of the addition to the present building totals $52,680. as compared with a $36,906. operating budget plus $14,340. for principal and interest payments on the bond issue for the current school year, to make a total of $51,246. Since no state aid is anticipated due to expected discontinuance of the present general aid, the estimated income is reduced to $500. which makes the requested appropriation $52,180.00.

Status of Addition on Present Building

Although no construction has yet been done on the much needed addition to the present school building, a great deal has been accomplished in the way of planning and preparation. The school board and building committee have put in much time and study with the architect, Irving W. Hersey, in determining the design, utilization of space and selection of materials. With the plans now decided upon and the specifications drawn up, work on construction is expected to go ahead in the near future.

Health

With the employment of Phoebe H. Stevens as school nurse, provision is made for health supervision and follow-up work for the Pittsburg pupils. This attention to the physical welfare of our boys and girls means much in conducting an efficient school.

Legislation

The present year promises to be an important one in the consideration of legislation that will effect education. Several new proposed laws as well as numerous changes in and amendments to the existing laws will be presented to the Legislature. Of vital concern to the local district are the adoption of a full equalization formula for the distribution of state aid, teachers' retirement, additional state aid for cooperative school districts, state aid for building programs, and state aid for the compulsory transportation of high school pupils.

Conclusion

In conclusion, may I point out once more the ever increasing responsibility that must be accepted by our schools. As important as is the provision of every adequate and feasible means in the broadening of the minds of our youth, it is of even greater importance that they be deepened to the extent that adaptations to life's many and perplexing situations become progressively more constructive.

May I again express my deep appreciation to the members of the school board, parents, teachers and citizens for the council and help received in our efforts to maintain high standards in our schools.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST B. DANA

Superintendent of Schools
